"DRY" TERRITORY WILL BE OPENED

Supreme Court Says Agents For the Dealers May Canvass and Ship in Private Supplies.

WILL APPLY TO THIS CITY

Ruling Reverses Decision of Circuit
Court in Starke County
Case.

The supreme court Friday held that an agent of a retail liquor dealer may canvass dry territory and sell beer to be shipped to the purchaser in the dry territory. The decision is made in reversing the Starke circuit court for convicting George Shorter for canvassing to sell beer in Winamac, the case having been taken from Pulaski county to Starke county on change of venue.

The court states the case as follows: "That Shorter is a resident of the town of Winamac in Pulaski county, Indiana, and was at the time he is charged with making the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors; that Robert Johnson, mentioned in the indictment, was also at the time a resident of Winamac in Pulaski county; that said town of Winamac was at the time mentioned in the indictment 'dry' territory under the liquor laws of the state of Indiana; that on June 21, 1911, Shorter took and received at the request of said Johnson his written order for one case of beer in said town of Winamac; that said order was addressed to the Berghoff Brewing Company of Ft. Wayne (setting out the order); that said brewing company, on receipt of said order and money or draft, accompanying the same, caused to be shipped to said Johnson one case of beer; that said brewing company delivered said case of beer to the Pennsylvania Railroad company in Ft. Wayne and caused the same to be billed to said Johnson, at Winamac, where it was received by the regular railroad agent who afterward delivered it to said Johnson, the freight charges therefor having been paid by said brewing company; that Shorter took orders for others as well as that of Johnson for beer of the Berghoff Brewing Company; that said brewing company was licensed to wholesale and retail liquors; that Johnson purchased the beer for private consumption and not for sale."

The supreme court said the one question is the place of sale of the beer, and that if it was in Pulaski county, Shorter was guilty, and if in Allen county he was not guilty of any crime in Pulaski county. The court says:

"The place of sale is where the sale is completed by delivery. The general rule is that delivery to the carrier is delivery to the vendee and it is not affected by the existence of the right of stoppage in transitu. It seems to us that the controlling question in this case is, in whom was the title to the intoxicating liquor at the time of its delivery to the carrier?"

"If it was in the vendee, Johnson, then there was no sale in Pulaski county, and the judgment conviction is contrary to law (the court distinguishes cases cited by attorney-general). But in the case at bar there is no contention that Shorter had anything to do with the delivery. The title to the liquor was in Johnson upon its delivery to the carrier at Ft. Wayne, and Shorter could neither have called for and received the liquor at Winamac nor stopped it in the course of transportation. The sale to Johnson was at Ft. Wayne."

Judge Spencer wrote the opinion and none of the other judges dissented.

MRS. JANE COLE SUCCEUMBS

Expires at Her Home in Falmouth
From Paralysis.

Mrs. Jane Cole, 74 years old, widow of the late James Cole, died this morning about four-thirty o'clock at her home in Falmouth. Mrs. Cole had been ill for the past two months and death was not unexpected. She first suffered a stroke of paralysis and gradually grew weaker. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Bailey of Newcastle. The funeral services will be held Monday morning at the late residence and burial will take place in the Falmouth cemetery.

INJURED IN FALL FROM AUTOMOBILE

Russell Skipton Painfully Hurt When the Door of Machine Came Open Throwing Him to Pavement.

WAS ON THE RUNNING BOARD

Russell Skipton, a local high school student and son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Skipton, 219 North Harrison street, was severely injured last night about the face and hands, when a door of an automobile, driven by Herbert Alexander, came open.

About ten young people were riding in the machine and Skipton was on the running board and was holding to the door at the time of the accident, which happened on the brick street, between the two bridges near the cemetery. Mr. Skipton was rendered unconscious and required the immediate attention of Drs. W. S. Coleman and Lowell Green. The accident, although very painful, will not prove serious.

ROAD IS NOW OPEN TO CINCINNATI

Big Four Will Resume Traffic on White Water Division Using Old Schedule.

STILL MUCH WORK TO BE DONE

The Big Four railway will resume its regular schedule Monday morning between Ft. Wayne and Cincinnati. This will be the first time since the flood in March that trains have operated between the division points. The road has been opened into Brookville for some time and most of the damage south of Brookville has been repaired.

All along the line from Connersville to Cincinnati some hundreds of workmen are still employed and will be for weeks to come. The construction of permanent bridges has not begun, and many a rod of grade still needs considerable attention before speed can be made over it in safety. Considering the damage done to the road around Brookville the repairs have been made in remarkable fast time. It was first thought that it would be impossible to run trains under six months.

WORK IN THIRD.

The Knights of Pythias will have work in the third rank Monday night on two candidates and all members of the team are urged to be present.

G.A.R. RECEIVES INSTRUCTIONS

Local Post Informed on Line of March For Parade and Review at State Encampment.

DISTRICTS PLACED IN BODIES

Great Preparations Made For Annual Event to be Held in Indianapolis Next Week.

The following instructions received by the Joel Wolfe Post G. A. R. will be of interest to all of the local Civil war veterans as well as all others who will attend the Indiana G. A. R. annual encampment, to be held in Indianapolis next week, beginning on Wednesday, May 21, and closing May 23.

Believing that the encampment will be the last big event of its kind in Indianapolis, those in charge of the preparations are exerting every effort to make it a complete success. Many of the most prominent G. A. R. men in the country will be present and take part.

The parade of the Grand Army, Department of Indiana, will take place in Indianapolis on the afternoon of May 22, at 2:15 o'clock. The right will rest in Meridian street, corner of New York. The line of march is only one mile long over asphalt streets as follows: South on Meridian to the Circle, to the right around the Circle to Pennsylvania street, south on Pennsylvania to Washington, west on Washington to Illinois, north on Illinois to New York at which point a halt will be called for rest and closing up to proper distance.

The column will then proceed east on New York street, through the court of honor, reviewed by the commander in chief, the department commander, and all of the past department commanders on one side, and the whole body of the Women's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. on the other. The columns will disband on passing Delaware street.

The posts are directed to assemble at University Square at 1 o'clock, using Pennsylvania as the route thereto. At Pennsylvania and New York streets the flags to be carried by each comrade on parade will be distributed. On arrival at University Square the posts will fall in by districts, the positions being marked by large red banners with the number of the district in white letters.

The primary organization of fours, when completed, will be immediately changed to eights, which formation will be maintained throughout the march and passing in review. The guide will be right. All organizations must stand ready to march at 2:05 p. m.

A canvass of the membership discloses the fact that a large percentage of the posts have a very small membership and that not more than half a dozen will be able to make any kind of showing as a post. So in order that the column may present a handsome military appearance, which will be a credit to the comrades themselves, it will be necessary to consolidate the posts of a district into one body, in column of eights, with all banners massed at the head of the district column. Commanders of posts will march on the left of the column next to their own men, be they few or many.

American flags on four-foot staffs will be furnished each marcher in lieu of arms and which will be carried at a "Right Shoulder Shift" along the line of march, and at a "Shoulder Arms" past the reviewing stand.

Remind your men that for this occasion they are once more soldiers on review, and that all of the old orders, Continued on Page 5

POCAHONTAS IN ANNUAL MEETING

District Session of Lodge Held in Connersville Attended by Many Delegates.

GREAT OFFICERS ARE PRESENT

Thirty Candidates Received Work
Last Night Followed by a Banquet.

Delegates from councils of Pocahontas in Franklin, Union, Wayne, Shelby, Rush and Fayette counties met at the wigwag of the local councils, Chiquola and Shawmut, Friday for the annual district meeting, says the Connersville Examiner. Great officers of the order were present and answered questions and explained the laws and initiatory ceremonies to the assemblage, which numbered two hundred.

Last night the degree teams of this city and Cambridge conferred the initiatory work on thirty candidates and an elaborate banquet followed.

Great Pocahontas, Mrs. Lizzie Arbuckle of Kokomo; Great Winona, Mrs. Hesba Blough of Anderson; Great Prophetess, Mrs. Stella Bird of Cambridge City; Great Keeper of Records, Mrs. Pearl Thornburg of Daleville, and Great Keeper of Wampum, Mrs. Jessie Burg of Decatur, attended the meeting.

The following program was rendered, yesterday afternoon:
Opening Address—M. K. Moffett.
Piano and Violin Duet—Zelma and Audrey Ogle.

Piano Solo—Vera Phillips.
Reading—Ruth McCleaster.
Solo—Manford Ferguson.
Piano Duet—Audrey Ogle and Lavonne Scholl.

Piano Solo—Florine Davison.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. Anna Griffith.
Piano Solo—Cleo Trusler.

The last meeting was held at Cambridge City and a large number from this city were in attendance.

Mrs. Ed Hall of Connersville has announced her candidacy for Great Minnehaha and the local councils are expecting her to be elected to the prominent office.

MILROY COMMENCEMENT

Held Last Night in M. E. Church
There.

The Milroy commencement exercises were held last night in the M. E. church there. The address was given by Thomas W. Nadal of Olivet College, Michigan. Prof. Nadal is a former resident of Milroy and a graduate of DePauw University. His subject was "The Triangle of Life" and proved to be a fine lecture. The Erdmann orchestra of Greensburg furnished the music. This year's class was composed of eight graduates as follows: James Carlos McKee, Benjamin Grigsby, Vernace Burrows, Aylett Wimmer and Harry Myers, and the Misses Lula Richey, Emily Crane and Florence Morris.

STATE TRACK MEET TODAY.

The State track meet was held in Richmond today under the auspices of Earlham College. Three hundred athletes from one hundred different high schools had been entered in the events. Earl Roam and James Shanahan of the local high school were entered in the 220 yard dash and the 440 dash. They are expected to make a good showing. Prof. O. D. Tyner accompanied the boys. Quite a number of state records will probably be broken in the meet.

DAMAGE SUIT TRIED TODAY

Kirkham vs. Young Case Heard by Judge Megee.

The case of Albert C. Kirkham against Samuel H. Young, for damages and an injunction was tried in the circuit court today. The case was heard by Judge Megee and occupied the entire day. The case has been pending for a long time. The suit brought by the state railroad commission against the C. H. & D. for the failure to erect a station here within a specified time was dismissed yesterday. The railway commission demanded $1050. The company was ordered to erect a new depot here and given so long a time to complete the work. The railway failed to comply with the order and the suit followed. It had been in court over a year.

K. OF P. LODGES WILL HOLD MEMORIAL

Third Regiment, Uniform Rank Will Meet in Newcastle June 8 For Annual Exercises.

NINE LODGES REPRESENTED

The Third Regiment Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias, and the Knights of Pythias lodges of Hagerstown, Mooreland, Rushville, Knightstown, Richmond, Connersville, Cambridge City, Wilkinson and Newcastle will assemble in this city, June 8, to hold the annual memorial exercises of the lodge, says the Newcastle Courier.

Preparations are being made by the officials of the local lodge to entertain one of the largest representations of the Knights of Pythias ever in this city. It is hoped and expected to have all the state officers of the Uniform Rank present as the regimental review and annual inspection will be held the same day.

The officials of the state who will make the inspection have not yet been chosen, but it is hoped to have one of the most prominent men in the Knights of Pythias lodge present. The names of the inspecting officers will be published later.

The Hagerstown team will be accompanied by the Hagerstown L. I. C. Co. band, which is under the direction of Jean Mooremans, formerly leader of the Maxwell-Briscoe band in this city.

The program has not yet been fully arranged, but it is thought that the various teams will assemble at Castle Hall of Crescens lodge and will march from that place to South Mound cemetery, where the memorial exercises will be held.

TO MAKE REPORT TUESDAY

Assessors Given Until Then to Complete Work.

According to the law yesterday was the last day for the assessors to file their reports with the county auditor, but due to the fact that Auditor Holden has granted an extension in time until May 20 only one assessor has reported. The men asked for more time and were given until next Tuesday. This is usually the case as the assessors find it impossible to complete the work in the time specified. The county board of review will be in session for thirty days starting the first Monday in June.

LAW PROVIDES FOR INSPECTOR

Commissioners Under New Law May Appoint Man to Serve as Inspector.

MAY SERVE FOUR YEAR TERM

All Commodities Shall be Sold by Standard Weight or Measure—
Punishable by Fine.

An act of the last legislature if enforced will insure protection to consumers from crooked dealers. It is the new weights and measures law. The law authorizes the commissioners to appoint an inspector whose duty it shall be to see that all weights are standard and that the scales and measure are correct.

House Bill 80 (Chapter 161), approved March 10, approves the last seven sections of Acts 1911, Page 635, relating to the inspection of weights and measures. The name of the officer authorized to test weights and measures is changed to "inspector of weights and measures" instead of "sealer," as used in each section. For the provision that the board of county commissioners man, in their discretion, appoint such an officer for the county and that the common council of any city may provide for such an appointment by the mayor, is substituted the provision that in counties of less than 50,000 population the commissioners may appoint a county inspector, and that the common council of every city of the first and second class "shall provide for the appointment by the commissioners of public safety" of a city inspector, and the commissioners "of every county of 50,000 population or more, shall" appoint a county inspector, unless the county contains a city of 20,000 or more inhabitants which is already provided with a city inspector. A provision is inserted that "the county councils of such counties (as appoint inspectors) shall appropriate such sums of money as are necessary for the maintenance of the office." ## Where the Children Come In.

There seems to be as much style in children's clothes now as there is in grown-ups. And the children know it, too.

The other day a little girl came home from school and astonished her mother by saying:

"I don't want to wear this dress any more. I want a Russian blouse, like all the other girls have."

Now the mother knew that there were such things as "Russian blouse dresses," but that children were wearing them had escaped her notice. Being a wise woman she hastily sought counsel with the advertisements of THE DAILY REPUBLICAN and there she discovered just what "all the girls were wearing" and where she could buy most advantageously for her little daughter.

Many a mother has found that in order to know what to get for her children she must keep herself informed of changes of style through reading the advertisements of the shops in a reliable paper. They tell her not only what the other children have, but where each article may be bought.

As the weather demands change or renewal of following articles of

NOTE IN ANSWER TO JAP PROTEST

Will Be Delivered When Johnson Signs Bill.

PRESIDENT HAS IT IN HAND

Important Diplomatic Communication Was Indorsed at a Long Conference of Cabinet, but Will Not Be Given Out to the Public Until It Is Formally in the Hands of the Japanese Ambassador.

Washington, May 17.—At a long session of the cabinet the reply of the United States to the Japanese protest against the California alien land bill was considered. The note, which was drawn by John Bassett Moore, state department counselor, received the approval of the president and his advisers and is ready for transmission to Ambassador Chinda. There was an intimation that the president will wait until Governor Johnson actually has signed his answer to Ambassador Chinda. In the meantime courtesy due the Japanese government requires that the text of the note be kept secret.

It is known that the Japanese government expects the president to reply promptly to its protest, now that Governor Johnson has said he intends to sign the bill. At the same time the Japanese ambassador has endeavored twice to learn from the state department when the governor intends to make the bill in his hands a law. It is assumed that the Japanese expect to adapt their program in the proceedings to the time of the signing of the alien land bill.

It is generally understood that the chief contention of the answer to the Japanese protest is that there is no violation of the treaty of 1911 involved in the California land bill. The Japanese government undoubtedly will be reminded that the federal government of the United States has no control over legislation enacted by states except as such legislation is in violation of the provisions of the constitution or a treaty between the United States and another government. The president does not consider that the California bill comes under either of these two exceptions.

The Japanese have not raised the question of eligibility of her subjects to citizenship nor to ask for a reason of the controversy, so the reply will not take up either of these matters. It is expected, however, the Japanese will be invited to take their cause into the courts if they feel that the interests of their subjects are likely to suffer from the workings of the California law, and that Japanese in that state are likely to be deprived of what are regarded as their rights. There is ample precedent in American diplomatic history for the president to offer to Japan such a remedy.

It is not believed by anyone that the Japanese will consent to take their cause before a federal court. Dispatches from Tokio bearing on the present situation sustain this view. The Japanese are represented as one mind that the government of the United States must give Japan what it demands in this issue or accept responsibility for an affront to the government and people of the empire.

That the present situation between Japan and the United States is in the nature of a crisis in the relations between the two governments is admitted freely in cabinet circles. At the same time annoyance was expressed with the publicity given to certain military movements and conferences at the White House between the president and Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of the Navy Daniels. Objection to publicity given these features of the present situation was frankly based on the fear that a wrong interpretation might be set upon them in Japan. The administration clearly showed its most earnest desire not to do anything or permit anything to be done which might further excite Japanese public opinion. In fact, the fear that in the attitude of the Japanese populace lies the real danger of the situation, was for the first time officially admitted.

CONTRADICTORY TESTIMONY

The Jury in the Thaw Case Faces Confusion in Evidence.

New York, May 17.—The case of John N. Anhut, lawyer, on trial before Justice Seabury in the criminal branch of the supreme court on a charge of bribery, will go to a jury this afternoon. The testimony has been finished, the jury having heard nothing but contradictory testimony.

Dr. Russell, former superintendent of Matteawan asylum; Horace A. Hoffman, confidential agent for Thaw, and Anhut himself, were among the principal witnesses, and while Hoffman testified to facts admitted on both sides, that he turned over the money and securities to Anhut, Russell and Anhut gave entirely opposite versions, Russell saying that Anhut offered $20,000 as a bribe, the defendant declaring that Russell demanded $20,000. Thaw's testimony had not benefited either the defense or the prosecution, because he said that he understood that Anhut, as confidential agent of Russell, would name the price for his release.

ARMOR PLATE COSTS ENTIRELY TOO MUCH

That Is What Senator Ashurst Declares.

Washington, May 17.—According to a statement made in the senate by Senator Ashurst of Arizona, the armor plate for the new superdreadnought Pennsylvania is costing Uncle Sam $1,600,000 more than it should. Two hundred dollars per ton of super-profit is going to the "steel trust," in the opinion of the Arizona senator, who has a resolution of inquiry pending.

"The plates for the Pennsylvania, 8,000 tons of them, have been contracted for by the recent Republican administration in the very last day of its existence, at a price heretofore unknown in the history of naval construction," said the senator. "The last recorded price for armor plate was $420 per ton for the 'class A' plates. The Pennsylvania's plates will cost $454 per ton. It is an outrage upon decency. I am prepared to furnish a capable and expert witness who will prove to the satisfaction of any committee of senators that the price of $454 per ton is $200 too high. I cannot give the name of the expert publicly, but I will privately inform any senator who is anxious to know, and I am convinced that the name of the expert will suffice any member of the senate to justify my claim that he is an expert and a competent witness."

The fire loss in the United States, in proportion to the inhabitants, is nearly ten times as great as it is in countries like France and Austria.

THE FIRST TEST VOTE IN SENATE

Victory For Tariff Program In Sight.

WILSON CONTROLS SITUATION

The Action of the Upper House in Declining to Grant Public Hearings on the Revenue Measure, Showed, by a Division of 41 to 36, That Wilson-Underwood Forces Have Ample Ability to Put Their Program Through.

Washington, May 17.—The way now seems to be open for a notable victory for President Wilson on his tariff program, as he has control of the situation in the senate.

This is the interpretation put on the first test vote on the Underwood bill, which came yesterday. By a division of 41 to 36 the senate refused to grant public hearings on the bill and thus sustained the motion of the Wilson leaders in the upper branch of congress. Only two Democrats left the party reservation. They were Ransdell and Thornton of Louisiana, who are expected to vote against the tariff bill on its final passage.

The Democratic forces in the congress were recruited by one vote—that of Senator Poindexter of Washington, the only avowed Progressive or third party man in the senate.

Senators Walsh of Montana and Newlands of Nevada, who have led the Democratic insurgent movement on free wool and who have been classed as doubtful, declared they intended to stand by the party program.

So significant was the vote that Senator Clarke of Wyoming, a Republican, admitted on the floor that the Underwood bill was practically law at this time, so far as any doubt as to its chances of passing is concerned. Pointing his finger at the Democratic side, he accused Democratic senators of bowing submissively to the yoke of the party caucus in the face of the fact that their personal judgment was that the present tariff bill is not a proper measure.

The action of the senate in voting against holding hearings means that the passage of the bill will be expedited. Five hours of debate preceded the vote, probably the most interesting feature of which was the speech of Senator James of Kentucky, who declared that the pending bill was not a free trade measure; that it would raise $300,000,000 in revenue; and that the fact the president was in favor of free sugar did not convict him of being a free trader. Before concluding Senator James declared that if President Taft had vetoed the Payne-Adams bill "bonfires would have been burned in his honor throughout the country and he would have been triumphantly re-elected." The senator added that President Wilson had the sentiment of the country behind him to a degree that no other president has had in fifty years.

FRENCH DRIVER IN RACE

JULES GOUX.

Jules Goux is a French driver who won the Sarthe Grand Prix in 1912, in a Peugeot car which was exactly of the same model as the one which he will drive in the third annual 500-mile International Race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. Goux is a veteran driver who does not know the meaning of fear and who is as spectacular as he is skillful. In France he has distinguished himself as the head of the famous Peugeot racing team, and his long list of victories is indeed enviable. Goux has full confidence in the car he drives, but he is anticipating a close contest at Indianapolis. "The American cars and the American drivers have long since demonstrated what they can do," he told a newspaper man in Paris recently, "and our team expects to be compelled to do its best work on the Indianapolis track."

RICH MAN WILL PILOT CAR

CALEB BRAGG.

Caleb Bragg is another member of the millionaire-sportsmen's class. Since 1909 he has been in the public eye as a racing pilot, and he will be seen again this year at the wheel of a Mercer in the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. He is possessed of indomitable courage, and although like Ralph DePalma, with whom he will team this year, he has been the victim of many thrilling accidents, he still retains his love for automobile racing, and has no idea of quitting the sport. It was Bragg who drove the car in the Milwaukee Grand Prize race last autumn, with which DePalma collided sustaining injuries which came near preventing him from ever racing again. Bragg had another unusual experience at the Brighton Beach races in 1910, when his car crashed through the fence which surrounded the track. Luckily it did not turn turtle and Bragg steered back on to the track smashing through another portion of the fence, and won the race. The car which he will drive in the 500 mile race at Indianapolis this year is the twin of the one which DePalma will pilot.

WILL CARE FOR BIG CROWD

CAPT. WM. P. CARPENTER, I. N. G.

There is one man upon whose shoulders a lot of responsibility will rest during the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race, which will be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. This is Captain William P. Carpenter, director of public safety. Captain Carpenter has under his command 350 trained soldiers who constitute the organization known as the Speedway Guards, and which in its efficiency is equal to the famous Jefferson Guards of the St. Louis Exposition. Captain Carpenter is an active military man, being commissary-captain of the Second Regiment, Indiana National Guards. He has had fifteen years military experience, in all grades from private to captain. Ever since the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was opened he has handled the policing system, and the trained men under his command are conceded to form the most efficient private police organization in the world. Only men who have had active military service and who know the meaning of discipline and obeying orders are permitted to enlist. The Speedway has complete military equipment for its organization, and law violators long ago learned that it is unsafe to operate within the jurisdiction of these soldier policemen.

They will be on duty from early morning, spending the night previous to the race in camp at the Speedway grounds. Capt. Carpenter will be assisted by a detachment of commissioned officers who know how to handle men systematically.

DRIVER LOVES THE SPORT

SPENCER WISHART.

Spencer Wishart, millionaire sportsman, has been entered to drive in the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, as a member of the Mercer team which will be headed by Ralph DePalma. Wishart is scarcely more than a boy but so brilliant is his record that he is given a place among the veterans of the game. He began his career by driving cars which he owned himself, and remains in it, not because the prize money holds out any special lure for him, but merely because he loves the excitement of the sport. Time and again he has announced his intention of retiring from racing to take up the life of an ordinary citizen, but with the announcement of every race, Wishart feels the irresistible call of the track and then loses no time in donning racing togs again. He has been considered the most successful free lance driver in the country, and has taken part in every 500-mile race held at Indianapolis. Last year he drove a Mercedes car as DePalma's team mate. He has great faith in his present mount and expects to finish well with in the money.

WHEN THE LONG RACE BEGINS

An interesting moment in the 500-mile automobile race, which has become an annual event at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, is when the thirty cars which have successfully passed through the elimination trials line up ready for the signal which will start them on the long all-day grind. Every man is fully conscious of the work that is before him and he places absolute reliance in the car which he has been putting in shape for months before the great day arrives. So many elements enter into an automobile race that even the most expert judges hesitate before venturing a suggestion as to which car and driver will be victorious. No contest in the category of sport is surrounded with the same degree of chance that marks an automobile race. When the thirty cars line up for the start of the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, there will be represented there the very cream of American and European race drivers. Every car will have its enthusiastic supporters in the grand stands, and with flags waving, bands playing, and cheers going up from thousands of throats, it will undoubtedly mark the beginning of the most exciting contest ever witnessed in this country.

Right Rev. William C. Doane Passes Away in New York.

New York, May 17.—The Right Rev. William Crowell Doane, bishop of Albany, died at the Manhattan hotel at 12:05 this morning. The bishop registered at the hotel May 13 and has been ill ever since.

Bishop Doane had been Protestant Episcopal bishop of Albany for forty-four years when death came to him. He was consecrated as bishop on Feb. 2, 1869. He was born in Boston March 2, 1832, making him past eighty-one years old at the time of his death.

ARCTIC EXPEDITION MET COMMON FATE

Disaster Overtook the Schroeder-Stanz Party.

Christiania, May 17.—The German scientific expedition under Lieutenant Schroeder-Stanz, met with disaster all the members of the company being either dead or lost in the Arctic wastes, according to a report received here from the commander of the Norwegian relief party which has been searching for them. The report states that Lieutenant Schroeder-Stanz, the commander of the expedition, is missing, that Dr. Dettmors and Dr. Melsar were drowned, and Eberhard was frozen to death and Stavo died of illness. No trace of the other members of the expedition could be found, and it is believed none of them have survived.

The first relief expedition which set out from here was forced to turn back. The second, from which a report has just been received, was headed by Captain Straxrud. The first report received from him stated that the Germans were icebound in Spitzbergen and that it was impossible to get into communication with them.

Lieutenant Schroeder-Stanz's expedition started into the Arctic regions about a year ago, and expected to remain there three or four years. They planned to travel along the entire northern coast of Europe and Asia. When they were first caught in an Arctic winter they managed to send a message to civilization telling of their peril and a relief expedition was organized here and sent out to save them.

SUMMARY OF THE BILL BY ITS

Representative Hull, House Expert, Prepares Synopsis of the Measure.

REPRESENTATIVE HULL, income tax expert of the house of representatives at Washington, has prepared an official synopsis of the income tax bill, so that busy people, who have no time to puzzle themselves over the complex and confusing legal phraseology of the measure, may easily find out what it all means.

The synopsis is a simple and intelligible explanation of the bill. It was prepared in response to hundreds of requests for an easily comprehensible outline of the bill.

Here is Hull's synopsis of the sections which relate to the tax on individuals:

Incomes Covered.—Those of all citizens of the United States residing at home or abroad; those of all persons residing in the United States although not citizens thereof; all net incomes from property owned and from every business, trade or profession carried on in the United States by persons residing elsewhere.

Normal Tax.—One per cent per annum upon the amount of net income over $4,000.

Additional Tax.—One per cent per annum upon the total amount of net income from all sources over $20,000 and not over $50,000 per annum; 2 per cent per annum upon the amount of net income over $50,000 and not over $100,000; 3 per cent per annum upon the amount of net income over $100,000.

Net Income Includes.—All gains, profits and income derived from salaries, wages or compensation for personal services of any kind and however paid; professions or vocations; business, trade or commerce; sales or dealings in property, real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of, or interest in property, real or personal; interest, rent, dividends or securities; transaction of any lawful business carried on for gain or profit; gains or profits or income derived from any source whatever; income, but not the value, of property acquired by bequest, devise or descent; income, but not proceeds, of life insurance policies paid upon death.

Bad Debts Deducted.

Deductions Allowed.—Necessary expenses actually incurred in carrying on any business; all interest accrued and payable within the year on indebtedness; all national, state, county, school and municipal taxes; losses actually sustained during the year, not compensated by insurance or otherwise, arising from fire, storm or shipwreck; debts actually ascertained to be worthless and charged off during the year; a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion or wear and tear of property arising out of its use or employment in business; all income tax upon which has been paid at the source; amounts received as dividends upon the stock of any corporation, etc., which is taxed upon its net income; interest upon bonds and securities guaranteed free from taxation.

Deductions Not Allowed.—All personal, living or family expenses; taxes assessed against local benefits; all expense of restoring property or making good the exhaustion thereof for which an allowance has been made; amounts paid for new buildings, permanent improvements or betterments made to increase the value of any property or estate.

Exemptions.—Interest upon the obligations of a state or any political subdivision thereof; interest upon the obligations of the United States the principal and interest of which are now exempt from federal taxation; the compensation of the present president during the term for which he has been elected; the compensation of the judges of the supreme and inferior courts of the United States now in office; the compensation of all officers and employees of a state or any political subdivision thereof.

Amount of Income Exempt.—Four thousand dollars shall be deducted from the net annual income, as above ascertained, of each person; only one deduction of $4,000 shall be made from the aggregate income of all members of a family.

Family Consists Of.—One or both parents and one or more minor children or of husband and wife.

Exemptions.—A wife living permanently apart from her husband; guardians are allowed to make deductions in favor of each and every ward when same are not comprised in one family having joint property interests.

Time of Going Into Effect.—The tax shall be computed upon the remainder of the said net income for the year ending Dec. 31 and for each calendar year thereafter.

Returns Under Oath.

Return of Income.—A true and accurate return of all net incomes of $3,500 or more shall be made under oath or affirmation; it must be made to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which said person resides or has his principal place of business in the United States.

Form of Return.—The form shall be prescribed by the commissioner of internal revenue, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury; shall set forth specifically the gross amount of income from all separate sources; from this total shall be deducted the aggregate items of expenses and allowances above authorized.

Time of Return.—The return must be made on or before March 1, 1914, and on or before March 1 of each year thereafter.

Persons Required to Make Returns.—First, each taxable person of lawful age for himself; second, guardians, trustees, executors, shall make and render a return of the net income coming in their hands for or under their control.

same is understated; no such increase shall be made except after due notice to such party and upon proof of the amount understated; in case of disagreement between the collector and the taxable person such person may submit the case with papers and proof to the commissioner of internal revenue.

Assessments.—All persons shall be notified of the amount for which they are respectively liable on or before June 1 of each year.

Three Year Limit.

Neglected, Fraudulent or False Returns.—In case of neglect or refusal to make returns, or in case of fraudulent or false returns, upon the discovery within three years after said return is due the commissioner of internal revenue shall make such return himself.

Time of Payment.—Said regular assessments shall be paid on or before the thirty-first day of June each year. Assessments made by the commissioner of internal revenue are payable upon notification.

Penalty For Delayed Payments.—On sums due and unpaid after June 30, or for ten days after notice and demand thereof by the collector, there shall be added 5 per cent to the amount of tax unpaid and interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month from the time the same became due.

Exceptions.—Incomes from the estates of insane, deceased or insolvent persons.

Collection at the Source.—All persons, firms, companies, etc., including lessees or mortgagors of real or personal property, trustees acting in any trust capacity, executors, etc., employers and all officers and employees of the United States having control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, emoluments or other fixed or determinable annual gains, profits and income of another person exceeding $4,000 for any taxable year, who are required to make and render a return in behalf of another, are hereby authorized and required to deduct and withhold such normal tax and pay it to the United States official authorized to receive the same.

Exception.—Incomes from the dividends on the capital stock or from net earnings of a corporation, etc., subject to the normal tax are not to be included in the above.

Liability.—Each of the persons, firms, etc., above enumerated are hereby made personally liable for such tax.

Benefit of Exemption.—Where the income tax of a person is paid at the source the benefit of the $4,000 exemption shall not be allowed unless there shall be filed not less than thirty days prior to the day on which the return is due with the person or concern required to make such payment of tax at the source an affidavit claiming the benefit of such exemption. When a taxable person's tax is paid at the source, if he desires any deduction for losses, expense of business, etc., he may either file claim together with return of any other income upon which the tax is not withheld at the source either with the collector or with the person or corporation withholding his tax, as the taxpayer may choose.

Individual Incomes Not Exceeding $4,000 Per Annum to Be Taxed at the Source.—Incomes derived from interest on bonds, mortgages or other indebtedness of corporations, joint stock companies or associations, insurance companies; securities of the United States not now exempt from taxation; incomes composed of coupons, checks or bills of exchange for or in part payment of interest or dividends upon stock or obligations of foreign corporations, etc., engaged in business in foreign countries; interest upon bonds of foreign countries; foreign mortgages or like obligations not payable in the United States.

Penalties Specified.

General Provisions.—No taxable person shall be released from liability for this tax; when a return is made and his tax paid at the source no person shall be required to make a return himself unless he has other net income; only one deduction of the $4,000 shall be made in case of any person.

Failure or Neglect to Make Return For Personal Tax.—Any person, corporation, etc., liable to make a return for a personal tax refusing or neglecting to make such return shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding $500.

Perhaps no part of the income tax bill, if it becomes a law, will give more trouble than that relating to exemptions. Already there has been much discussion of this point and the courts have been asked to decide certain points.

One reason why the collection of such a tax must be looked upon as a serious problem is that the income tax, the world over, is a comparatively new and therefore comparatively little understood form of collecting revenue.

Conservative investors who have purchased corporation or railroad bonds with the understanding that they were exempt from all taxation were unpleasantly disillusioned by the new bill.

The income tax law will be no respecter of persons or corporations or of the promises that corporations have made to persons.

Many issues of bonds, such as the United States Steel corporation's securities have stamped across their faces in bold letters, "not subject to taxation." And the purchaser is assured that he will always receive the net price as quoted by the broker.

All this will be changed when the income tax bill becomes law. All bonds will be subjected to taxation except those issued by the states, counties and municipalities.

It is estimated that the individual who will feel this section most keenly is Andrew Carnegie, who holds more than $200,000,000 Steel bonds, which heretofore have been exempt from taxation.

Members of the Vanderbilt family, who hold large blocks of stocks of the New York Central and its allied and subsidiary companies, will be heavily hit.

Representative Hull, who wrote the bill, said that the committee could not respect the promises made to one set of investors by corporations and that the interest on all bonds must be charged at the same rate that is charged against other sources of revenue.

Therefore when Carnegie receives his interest next year he will find that Uncle Sam has clipped off a substantial portion of his "nontaxable" income at the same rate that he has charged John Smith and John Brown on their salaries or the incomes on their real estate holdings.

Committee's Theory.

The committee in preparing the bill worked on the generally accepted theory that a direct tax is usually distasteful to those assessed, and for that reason as much as possible the tax will be collected at the source.

The greater proportion of incomes which will fall under the new system will come from corporations, and therefore the new law will put it squarely up to the officers of corporations to deduct from the interest paid stockholders the amount which they owe the government.

Here is an example of the manner in which the holdings in corporations will be assessed and taxed: At the end of the fiscal year the officers of all corporations will present to the internal revenue collector a statement showing the names of stock and bond holders and the amount held in each name. Attached to this will be a schedule showing the earnings of the corporation and the interest that has accrued to each stockholder.

In every case where the interest payable to a stock or bond holder amounts to more than $4,000 and less than $20,000 the treasurer of the corporation will deduct 1 per cent and mail to the treasury department a check for the amount.

In the cases of the larger stockholders, where they are liable to the tax of an additional 1, 2 or 3 per cent, the same course will be followed. When the check reaches the stockholder he will find that his fiscal arrangements have been attended to and that he has been charged with the interest he owes Uncle Sam in much the same way that he might have been charged with a special assessment of one sort or another.

The officers of every corporation will collect the full amount and turn it over to the government and will make no deductions for the first $4,000, which is exempted, except in the cases where they are specifically requested to do so by the individual.

Exceptions Not Allowed.

For example, if an individual had interest in the amount of $10,000 coming from two corporations he would have a total of $20,000 in reality, but only $16,000 of this amount would be taxable. The officers of the corporations are not allowed by the law to make any exception except when specifically notified to do so by the owner of the stock.

When the individual affected notifies the corporation he is also required by law to notify the collector of internal revenue so that the original $4,000 may be exempted for him.

In order to offset abuses that might arise under this system the collector of internal revenue will keep a comprehensive checking system. The records of his office will show the names and addresses of every man and woman in the country who has an income of more than $4,000, together with the manner in which the money is invested and the rates of interest it bears.

THEY SHOULD WORRY--AND DO

Slang Phrase Shocks Teachers, and They Forbid Its Use.

The Atlantic (N. J.) high school faculty has placed a ban on the use of the slang phrase, "I should worry."

Principal Henry F. Miller overheard a pupil say: "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep; if I should die before I wake I should worry," and was horrified.

Notices were posted that suspension would follow any future use of the phrase in this way.

Two Kinds of Advertising.

Why advertising doesn't pay—how much the newspaper man could write along that line!

Here is an ad from some substantial conservative house, in which the merchant says something like this: "Buy the best. It's the cheapest. Smith, Jones & Co. always have the Best."

The reader on seeing that ad is thereby reminded that Smith, Jones & Co. are alive. It is good as far as it goes. But he says to himself, "They all claim that," and the notice makes comparatively little impression.

Another man, say a shoe dealer, publishes a notice something like this: "Best quality Brown, Johnson & Co.'s women's kid shoes, hand-sewed, oak tanned soles, solid throughout, patterns and lasts never shown previous to May, 1913. Price $3.25." When your women readers find an ad written something after that style, it strikes them that for some good reason there is a chance to save a dollar. If they have any intention of buying such an article in the near future, they are interested to go in and look at the goods. A moderate size notice of that kind will pull more trade than a larger display with no logic or facts in it.

Fishing Styles Never Change.

Styles and fashions of amusements change. The base ball that was played 25 years ago would be hooted off the diamond today. But the sport of fishing goes on from age to age as ever.

A box of worms catches just as many fish as it did in Isaac Walton's day, and no more. Probably you could get as many ideas about fishing out of Walton's genial philosophy as from the latest copy of Forest and Stream.

When the society man is asked to burrow in some unfashionable resort, put on old clothes and chase the elusive trout or salmon, he chooses rather a hall bedroom in the city. He would pay for the railroad ticket to be able to stay on the boulevards.

However, fishing appeals just as intimately as among the fishermen of Galilee in the Year 1. The man to whom the works of nature are more interesting than the works of man, will always find rest and diversion in the teeming life of brooks and lakes and grassy banks.

The Indianapolis Star, the organ of the "anti-boss" ridden (?) Progressive party of Indiana, has made its choice of a candidate for mayor of Indianapolis in advance and demands his nomination over other worthy men of that party. This is an exercise of bossism expected only from municipal bosses of the Tammany kind. And in the face of all this the Star still continues to howl about bossism in other parties.

From every quarter of the United States a great shortage of laborers is reported—particularly unskilled laborers. This is a condition of affairs that the great labor trust has been trying to bring about and has worked indefatigably for years to that end—by shortening the hours, excluding foreign laborers, etc. Just a few days ago a labor agitator made the brag that after the eight-hour work day was well established, then they would work for a six-hour day.

Every political campaign, be it national, state or municipal, has its individual characteristics. The unusual feature of the present Indianapolis municipal campaign is that all candidates for the majority are out promising each other. Never before in the history of any municipal campaign was there so much promised—and will be so little kept—as usual. It is disgusting to follow the progress of the campaign as depicted by the Indianapolis papers.

The proposed prohibiting of the importation of bird plumage is stirring up the millinery trade. American hen feathers would be all right, if there was only some way to make them cost more.

The new seating arrangement has made plenty of room in the House of Representatives at Washington, but somehow the loafers prefer to sit out on the park benches.

There has been no war with England for a hundred years, but it is felt that it would help the ammunition business if somebody could get up one.

A great many people are enjoying gardening nowadays, that is, they have a good time looking on while the hired man gets the backache.

President and Mrs. Wilson have given a garden party, but none of the guests were so thoughtful as to offer to weed the potatoes.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

Republican Love Feast.
(Terre Haute Tribune.)

The presence here of Hon. Joseph Guernsey Cannon, Hon. "Jim" Watson, Hon. Will Wood, Hon. George Lockwood and other faithful and consistent followers of the party of Lincoln, McKinley and Taft should be an inspiration for the members of the republican party on this side of the state. The organization has weathered a typhoon which reached its crest about November 5th last, and there are grounds for the conviction which most republicans entertain, that the party will be early rehabilitated and will soon return to the field in all panoply of its former glory to do its share towards the direction of the republic along those lines most conducive to popular government. One defeat does not mean dissolution for a well grounded political organization, as has been demonstrated on more than one historic occasion by democracy itself. No right thinking citizen considers that the republican party faltered in its guardianship of popular government. It merely clung to theories which the bulk of the citizens considered less direct than those advocated by the democratic party. The fortunate thing for the republican party is that the ruling party has such an able exponent as President Wilson to demonstrate the efficiency of these theories. His ability to apply these ideas of government will all the more readily prove their merit, or vice versa. The progress of the administration so far indicates that the change has been for the better. Therein lies the lesson for the chieftains of republicanism.

Liberty Express Continues to "Hand It" to Judge Gray.

Judge George L. Gray, of Connersville, a brother of Finley Gray, is finding more opposition to his renomination in the Liberty Express, a Democratic organ, than was at first expected. The Express has been opposed to Judge Gray and if the latest effusion of that organ is true, he should be opposed. Under the heading "Some Reasons Why" the Express this week says:

"Herewith are given some of the reasons why we think Judge Gray is not entitled to a third term:

"Because it is un-democratic for one man to have a life tenure on a public office. It is contrary to the practices of a republic.

"Because Judge Gray has not at any time during his term of office given the office the attention that it should receive in either of the three counties.

"Because the office of judge requires a man who can lend some dignity to the office, not only while he is on the bench, but while he is assuming the role of a citizen.

"Because the office should not be used as a means to gain political ends.

"Because the majority of the persons who have been convicted in open court by a jury of their peers have been allowed to go free by Judge Gray under the guise of suspended sentence.

"Because of the absurdness of the 'poverty gag' that the Judge is using to rally votes to his standard. He will have had the office 12 years when his term is out and the salary for this term means more than $40,000. Where should poverty come in? If he is incapable of transacting his own business, should he be given an office upon which hinges the destiny of every man and woman in the counties of Union, Fayette and Franklin?"

SANITARY WORK IN CANAL ZONE

Dr. Roswell Park Finds Conditions Very Satisfactory.

ISTHMUS HEALTHFUL PLACE

No Mosquitoes to Be Seen, and Flies Are Few—Last Death From Yellow Fever Was Seven Years Ago, and Malaria Has Also Been Stamped Out by Banishing the Insect Pests.

"Let the public not forget the heroes here at home, the research workers in the little laboratories, the men who built the foundation for the sanitary work so splendidly put to use by Colonel Goethals and his official staff at Panama," is the suggestion offered by Dr. Roswell Park, the physician who attended President McKinley in his last days at Buffalo and who has just returned from an unofficial visit to the canal zone.

Dr. Park is at present devoting a large amount of his time to the forthcoming international congress on school hygiene, which is to be held at Buffalo the last week in August, and accordingly on his recent visit to Panama he was specially interested in what is being done for the benefit of the school children. Dr. Park found that the same care which surrounds and protects the adults in Panama is given to the children and that school hygiene at the isthmus is simply a part of the concern of public welfare, the kind of public welfare which will be brought so prominently to the attention of the world at the forthcoming congress in Buffalo.

"It is almost seven years ago to the day," said Dr. Park the other day in New York, "since the last death in the canal zone region by yellow fever. In other words, it has been effectually stamped out. The two principal diseases of that region have been in time past malaria and yellow fever. The carriers of both of these are a species of mosquito. It was Ross, an English officer, who first discovered the relation of the mosquito to malaria, and it was Reid, a United States army surgeon, who made out the same relationship for yellow fever, the disease which, in its investigation, he himself contracted and died, a martyr to science.

A Penny a Day.
"The actual expense of conducting the sanitary department of the canal zone has been nowhere near that which has been popularly supposed to exist. It has been quite generally stated in the public press that these expenses have amounted to the sum of $20,000,000. Actually they have not exceeded $4,000,000, and never in the world's history has money been applied to better purposes. Even in the expenditure of this sum the cost of the sanitary department, as Colonel Goethals has impressively stated, is to be separated from what may be called the cost of sanitation.

"Figured minutely, this cost is practically 1 cent a day per man. The public should realize what this means. In other words, it costs only 1 cent a day for an individual in the isthmus zone to preserve his health.

"Every house in which government employees are permitted to live is surrounded by a wire screen, and each house is lifted from the ground. In this way insects are absolutely excluded. Not a mosquito is to be seen and scarcely a fly.

"Even yet the public has very little comprehension of what it has meant to bring sanitation to this degree of perfection in this previously badly infected zone. It has been stated in time past that the canal enterprise has cost a man every time the Panama railroad runs a car. This is exaggerated, but it might be almost literally true to say every other time. There is for instance a station near the Pacific end of the road called Matarchin, where 1,200 Chinamen died in one camp of yellow fever some years ago. The very name implies the fact, since matar in Spanish means 'kill' and 'chin' is short for Chinaman. Matarchin means, therefore, 'dead Chinamen.'

Triumph Over Nature.
"Nowhere and never in the world's history has there been such triumph of man over the forces of nature. This applies to disease producing agencies as well as to mechanical conditions. Let the public not forget as it thinks of the Panama canal that underlying the surface of this enormous governmental work is the minute and painstaking investigation in the recondite cause of disease in the little laboratories where men are hidden from public observation and where they concern themselves with the study of disease germs and culture methods and the use of the microscope.

"And let it not forget also that the heroism displayed by those who have lost their lives in this sort of study is equal to any heroism displayed upon the battlefield or anywhere else. In fact, it is superior to it, because it concerns men giving deliberately, from stern conviction of duty toward others, and it is devoid of the glamour and applause which come to men who are in the public eye.

"All praise, then, to the men who, like Dr. Walter Reid of the United States army and others, have sacrificed themselves in the attainment of knowledge which is now the property of the world at large."

The Argyle Case

A Novelization by J. W. McConaughy of the Successful New Play by Harriet Ford, Harvey J. O'Higgins and Detective William J. Burns, in Which Robert Hilliard Is Appearing.

Copyright, 1912, by Journal-American-Examiner.

"I think you're perfectly right," she declared, fanning herself with a magazine. "I mean to say those police detectives aren't getting anywhere. Here it's a whole week and we don't know any more than we did at first."

"Well, this Kayton is a wonder," said Bruce, preparing to leave. "He'll find some clue that all the other detectives have missed. I've got to go now. Nan. The lawyers have sent for me. I'll be right back."

Mrs. Wyatt sighed gustily and gazed about her as Bruce disappeared.

"You know, Miss Thompson," she said, "this has been my home for twenty years, ever since Mary was taken into the family, but it never will be again. I mean to say I never could feel at home in a house where there'd been a murder. I suppose I'm peculiar, but I never—but it doesn't make any difference whether the room is opened or locked up. I can't go by without feeling it. Do you understand what I mean? I suppose," another sigh—"I suppose Mary'll sell the place. Have you heard anything about it?"

"Oh, no!" exclaimed the girl hastily. "Well!" Mrs. Wyatt pursed her lips and breathed even more rapidly.

"What do you think of the will?" Miss Thompson looked uncomfortable. "I think it's very unjust, of course," she replied reluctantly. Mrs. Wyatt shook her head dully.

"Mr. Argyle was a very strange man. I don't want to say anything disagreeable about the dead, but it's certainly hard to understand how a man could cut his own son off without a cent and leave a fortune to a girl who is in no way related to him."

"I don't believe Mary will let the will stand," interposed Miss Thompson, with the manner of one anxious to turn a disagreeable conversation. "Miss Thompson, I'd say that, too, but money changes people so. I mean to say—take a perfectly fair minded person like Mary, generous to a fault, and you never can tell what money will bring out in them—do you know what I mean?"

Miss Thompson was spared the pain of a further discussion of the subject by the reappearance of Finley with the announcement that the detectives had come. Miss Wyatt said she supposed they might as well come right in.

"Hadden't we better go?" suggested Miss Thompson after Finley had departed with the instructions.

"Yes—yes," agreed Mrs. Wyatt, hastening toward the door. "I don't want to see him. I mean to say—I've seen enough detectives during the past week to last me the rest of my life!"

They scurried into the morning room and closed the door behind them just as Kayton and one of his men entered from the hall.

CHAPTER III. Finger Prints.

FINLEY followed the two detectives into the somber room and eyed them suspiciously as their glances traveled slowly about, taking in every detail of arrangement and furnishings. The general scheme of the room was dark and polished oak, and since it was lighted from only one of the four sides, as is common in the homes of even the wealthiest in New York, there was always a half gloom that would be restful under ordinary circumstances, but now uncanny. In the decorations and other fittings the plan seemed to have been rather to deepen than lighten this effect. Tables, chairs, desks—all were dark and massive. The upholstery was a tawny yellow that added the appearance of great age. Andirons and other brasses were dulled and heavy, and the few pictures—two or three Barbizon landscapes—rang true to the tenor of the great room in their dull gold frames. There was one note of rich color where the reflected light of the day outside shone through the stained glass armorial bearings in the windows, and this only accentuated the depressing effect.

Kayton and his assistant, a boyish young fellow of about twenty-five, took in all of this in a brief but trained scrutiny. Kayton walked to one of the windows, opened it and leaned out far enough to see that the other commanded only the same view. Young Manning continued to gaze about. Finley remained aloof and suspicious in the background. He was waiting for the detectives to get to work. He did not understand that they were already hard at it. He grew more and more suspicious and contemptuous as the morning went on, for he could not see that the so called great detective did anything more, or even as much, as the regular force that had already been over the ground.

And in a way he was correct. It is not what he learns, but the use he makes of what he learns that distinguishes the great artist in detection from the common bungler. By reasoning clearly and unswervingly from the same premises he reaches conclusions that shock the public and the tyro that has preceded him on the work, simply because the latter has not had the common sense to drift with the never misleading current of logic. By this unpretentious application of common sense, this faith in the correctness of simple reasoning, successful defenders of society have been given credit for much spurious profundity, which they are the first to disclaim. When they deny that there is anything wonderful about it we murmur that modesty and greatness ever walk hand in hand. It is not modesty. It is the truth.

Before Kayton had organized his own agency he had been assigned as a government operative to run down an issue of counterfeit bills of large denominations. He made no brilliant strokes—no spectacular coups of reasoning.

Young Manning Continued to Gaze About.

He worked hard. He stuck to the trail and week by week and month by month he followed it until it led into the office of the federal district attorney and United States marshal of one of the largest cities in the United States. Here a weak man would have hesitated and said that while two and two make four, ordinarily, in this case two and two must make four and a half. But Kayton didn't. He knew that he had followed the one trail, and he continued to follow until, when they were arrested, the two officials confessed. He had only adhered to the axiom that nothing which is logical is impossible. If the evidence pointed that way he would investigate an archbishop with as little hesitation as he would an arch forger.

This was the man that old Finley regarded so sourly as he gazed out into the garden off the library windows and surveyed the rear elevations of the neighboring houses. Manning addressed the old butler first.

"I suppose the police from headquarters have been over everything. Is this the way the furniture was found?"

"One chair was lyin' on its back," grudgingly replied the butler. Manning thought swiftly.

"H'm! I wonder how that happened," he murmured.

"If you knew that and had your supper you could go to bed," growled the old servant. Manning grinned.

"You're Irish, eh?" Kayton came back from the window and appraised the stubborn old man quickly and silently.

"You're a great detective, Joe," he said grimly. Then he addressed Finley with studied courtesy.

"Can you put that chair the way it was?"

"I cannot," responded the old man promptly.

"The body was lying on its side, was it?" pursued Kayton calmly.

"That's as maybe," grunted Finley. Manning was unable to restrain himself at this cavalier treatment of his revered chief.

"You're a great detective, Joe," he said grimly.

"Say, you better open up!" he snarled. "You may be hanged on this case yourself yet!"

The butler snorted contemptuously. "I'll will you me wits then," he retorted, moving toward the door. "You'll be needin' 'em."

"What's his name?" demanded Kayton in a whisper.

"Finley," replied Manning in the same guarded tone. Kayton raised his voice.

"Joe, get Mr. Finley in here," he commanded. "He's the man that can help us."

"Why, he's Finley," replied Manning. The old servant stopped and turned. Kayton approached him eagerly.

"Are you Mr. Finley?" he demanded. That personage swelled his chest.

"I am," he declared importantly.

"Well! Why didn't you tell us that at first?" Kayton's tone was a marvel of cordiality and reproach. "I understand your confidential relations with the household and with Mr. Argyle, and young Mr. Argyle tells me that you're in a position to be of the greatest assistance to us."

The old butler's face told of a struggle between completely gratified vanity and general indignation over the whole situation. His next remark was a mixture of the two.

"Well, sir, I can tell you this," he declared. "I lay no great store by detectives."

"You're quite right," agreed Kayton in hearty sympathy.

"A class of men with so little intelligence that they would put suspicion on Miss Mary?" went on Finley indignantly, at the same time subtly making it clear that he excluded Kayton from the general condemnation. "They're beyond the assistance of any honest man."

"Did you try to help them?" inquired Kayton.

"Help them?" exploded the old man. "Man alive, how can you come between a fool and his folly? They'd hear no word from me. Their minds—what they had of 'em—were all set on one thought."

COUNTESS SZECHENYI

Said to Have Lost Much of Her Money in Hungary.

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS

Action in Hungary May Explain Loss of American Countess's Money.

Berlin, May 17.—An explanation of the financial difficulties in which Countess Szechenyi, formerly Gladys Vanderbilt, and her husband are involved and which are believed to have caused them to leave Buda Pest, is looked for in the bankruptcy proceedings brought in the Austro-Hungarian courts against three of the most prominent members of the Hungarian nobility, whose fortunes have been swallowed up in enterprises similar to those which have caused Count Szechenyi to lose several million dollars.

These three nobles are regarded as among the wealthiest magnates of Hungary, and rumor connects their failure with the loss of the Szechenyi millions, but no confirmation can be obtained of the report that it was due to the enterprises in which Count Szechenyi invested the bulk of his wife's fortune. The three men finally got into the hands of Shylocks, who got the remnants of the capital left over after they had been taken in by visionary schemes.

RIOTERS BATTLE IN HEART OF THE CITY

Turbulence Marks Strike at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, May 17.—On Fountain square, in the heart of the city, a mob of ten thousand persons was fought by the police, marking the first riot attending the present strike of union streetcar men. Some men were hurt and a score or more were arrested.

For the first time the police were compelled to meet force with force when a Vine-Clifton car was surrounded by a madly excited crowd of men, who began to resort to the throwing of missiles.

Stories differ as to the origin of the disorder. Many claim that one of the strike breakers on the car, who was armed with a club, struck at people who were lining the edge of the esplanade, waiting for the parade of ten thousand union men that was expected to pass at any moment. A riot call was sent to headquarters and in a few minutes several hundred police were on the scene and by free use of clubs order was restored.

Following out their order to restore the streetcar service more fully each day, the traction company has begun operating thirty-seven cars in all on four lines. No cars are being operated at night.

Labor union men, sympathizers, striking carmen and unorganized citizens, women and men alike, held the greatest demonstration in the history of organized labor in this city, with a parade in which there were fully ten thousand persons in line, and a mass meeting at Redland field. The affair was an expression of the approval of the fight of the traction company's employees for higher wages, better hours and union recognition. The strikers themselves, 2,000 strong, in uniform, led the parade.

WAS SEIZED IN TERRE HAUTE

"Dope" and the Material For the Manufacture of the Same Was Found in Large Quantities in a Chinese Laundry at Terre Haute, and It Was Ordered Destroyed by Federal Judge Anderson at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, May 17.—Judge Anderson in federal court ordered the destruction of a quantity of opium and articles for making opium, which were seized more than a year ago in a Terre Haute laundry operated by Jimmie and Willie Moy. Neither of the Chinese appeared in court to claim their property. Judge Anderson ordered destroyed five pounds of cooked opium, four pounds of boiled gum opium, seven gallons of opium extract, one bag of gum opium, twenty pounds of gum opium boiled, twenty-five empty powdered opium cans, one quart jug of unknown contents, one two-gallon can, one twenty-five-pound tin can, one twenty-five-pound empty opium can, one two-gallon stone jar, a one-gallon crock and eight cans of different sizes. The remainder of the goods seized, consisting of brass and copper kettles, jars, spring scales, dipper, sieve and a gasoline stove, were ordered sold. The goods were seized by Charles G. Covert, revenue collector, and were placed in storage to await the action of the court.

WANTS TO HAVE HEARING

Woman Indicted For Killing Husband Is Anxious For a Trial.

Memphis, Tenn., May 17.—The grand jury has returned an indictment charging Mrs. August Shieber of Mt. Vernon, Ind., with murder. Mrs. Shieber last fall shot and killed her husband, whom she found in a room with another woman. Her shots, it is said, were intended for the woman. The indictment is the result of the fourth attempt at such a proceeding, three former juries refusing to take action in the case. Mrs. Shieber is anxious for a trial under indictment so that she may inherit her husband's property, a thing she could not otherwise do.

Farmer Hangs Himself.

Muncie, Ind., May 17.—"Just hang around here a few minutes and you will see me breathe my last," remarked Alexander S. Cullens, sixty-eight years old, a Delaware county farmer, when he and his wife went to the buggy shed to do some work. The wife, fearing her husband meant to take his life, ran to the house and called her niece. When they returned to the shed they found Cullens's body dangling from a rafter. It is said that excessive drinking caused the man to become mentally weak.

Put Pressure on Drug Stores.

Petersburg, Ind., May 17.—Officers entered the residence of William Selby, a druggist, and in the cellar found a barrel partly filled with whisky, which was confiscated and will be destroyed. When the town recently voted "dry" both the "wets" and "drys" agreed to see that things were kept "dry." The "wets" are as determined as any that the drug stores shall obey the law.

NOT ENOUGH SOY BEANS RAISED

Purdue University Professor Says
This Crop is Being Neglected
by Farmers.

WILL IMPROVE THIN SOILS

Increases Rather Than Diminishes
Supply of Nitrogen—May be Planted up to June 15.

There is one crop of great value, that at present time is being greatly neglected by farmers, says J. C. Beavers of Purdue University. This crop belongs to the leguminous class of plants and deserves a place in our agriculture on account of the nitrogenous feed it furnishes and because it increases rather than diminishes the supply of nitrogen in the soil. On account of these advantages, the farmers of Indiana are justified in growing many more acres of soy beans than have been grown.

The greatest need of most Indiana soils is more nitrogen and organic matter. Through careless methods of management and poor crop rotations, man in three brief generations has almost exhausted what it took nature centuries to accumulate. These exhaustive practices can not long continue if our agriculture is to be permanent. The growing of such crops as soy beans will do much toward improving thin soils and maintaining those soils which are still fertile.

It is not always easy for the farmer to understand just why it is that a crop like soy beans will produce a feed containing more nitrogenous substance per acre than corn or oats, and at the same time leave the soil in better condition than it was before. I was visiting one of our demonstrators a short time ago, who grew two acres of soy beans last year. A neighbor who was in the field with its said, "Look here, I want you to tell me why it is that this wheat here where those soy beans grew last year is four inches higher than where corn was grown?" It took but little explanation to answer his question. Last year when we planted the beans we used about ten pounds of inoculating soil, which was mixed with the beans just before drilling. This soil had been taken from a field where soy beans were grown the year before that were thoroughly inoculated. It contained millions of bacteria which inoculate soy beans. These little microscopic organisms had done the work. They had stocked the roots with wart-like growths from the size of a pea to a small marble. They had done their share in producing a crop that sold for over $40.00 an acre, and they had increased the supply of nitrogen in the soil that is making a better growth of wheat. All this has been accomplished by bacteria. So all bacteria are not to be feared. This kind takes nitrogen out of the air and gives it to the plant, and the plant furnished it to man and the land.

There are a great many farmers in Indiana who would do well to co-operate with nature and get a good valuable crop for feeding or for sale, and at the same time improve their soil for ensuing crops.

By using early varieties, soy beans may be planted up to the 15th of June with safety. They are usually grown in rows 30 to 36 inches apart, using one-half bushel of seed per acre. The cultivation given is similar to that ordinarily given corn. Why not grow a few acres of this valuable crop this season?

TEAM IS READY FOR GAME TOMORROW

Locals in Fine Shape For Richmond
Waldorfs—Halterman Big Addition to Line Up.

LADIES' DAY EVERY SUNDAY

The management of the Rushville baseball team announces that starting tomorrow all women will be admitted to the grounds free of charge. This plan was followed for a time last year and proved a good drawing card. The Rushville team is in good shape for the game with the Richmond Waldorfs and the team that will face the visitors is conceded to be the strongest that has represented this city this year. The team has been strengthened with the addition of Halterman in left field and Jack Carr on first base. The team is out for a win, but it will be no easy victory as the Waldorfs put up a scrappy game is Mohl is right it may be a pitchers' battle. The locals will line up as follows: Mattern, catch; Avery, pitch; Carr, first; Cook, second; Wellman, short; Wilson, third; Halterman, left; Van Zandt, center, and Hahn, right. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

LAW PROVIDES FOR INSPECTOR

shall serve continuously during good behavior, under the provisions governing the fire and police force, and shall not be removed for any political reason, nor except for cause after a hearing, either before the commissioners of public safety or upon the charges preferred by the state inspector. The act shall apply to all sealers or inspectors of weights and measures heretofore appointed under any state law or city ordinance, who shall be continued in office as inspector under the provisions of this act for the respective city or cities.

The constitutionality of the provision that such officers shall serve for a term exceeding four years has been denied by some lawyers.

For the provision of the old law, that the expenses shall be paid from the appropriation for the food and drug department, is substituted an annual appropriation of $5,000, of which $1,000 shall be paid annually to the state food and drug commissioner for his service as state commissioner of weights and measures, and the remainder used for the salaries of inspectors, deputies and clerks, and other expenses. The penal section of the act is expressly made to cover offenses by any "firm or corporation" as well as by any "person."

A section is added as follows: "All commodities shall be sold by standard weight or measure. Provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to commodities which are usually and customarily sold by numerical count, or in gross, or are sold in packages prepared and put up for sale and so marked as to indicate the contents." Any violation of the foregoing provisions shall be made punishable by a fine of from $10 to $100, "to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for not more than three months upon first conviction." Upon a second or subsequent conviction the fine shall not be less than $25 nor more than $500, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months.

An emergency is declared and the act took effect the day it was approved.
